

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates in general to the field of biotechnology. The invention particularly relates to compositions and processes for stabilizing, or, as the case may be preserving biological molecules, as well as to devices that comprise correspondingly stabilized biomolecules.